f. Mr. [REDACTED] described a speech-inverter "scrambler" which his company can obtain from a sub-contractor and install in the first audio stage of the TR-20 for about $75 to $100 per unit. This feature offers only limited privacy - any unit so equipped will allow the holder to regain information from any other transceiver using the scrambler. No periodic coding or other variable is employed. However, all sets procured by AID will be so equipped, and it was mentioned that the units we would purchase should be identical. AID
